

What is claimed is:

1. A method of constructing a membrane probe comprising:

- 5 (a) providing a substrate;
- (b) creating a depression within said substrate;
- (c) locating conductive material within said depression;
- 10 (d) connecting a conductive trace to said conductive material; and
- (e) removing said substrate from said conductive material.

Ad4
A1